1. What Are Cookies?

Cookies are small text files or similar pieces of information that can be stored on your device when a website is loaded in your browser. Cookies can help websites function correctly, maintain security, remember preferences, understand website performance, and improve the user experience.

2. How We Use Cookies

Like many websites, the Muhtarif Support & Solution website may use first-party and third-party cookies or similar technologies for different purposes. The technologies actually used may depend on the website features and services that are enabled.

First-party cookies: These are placed by the website itself and may be used for core functionality, security, preferences, or other website operations.

Third-party cookies: These may be placed by external providers whose services are integrated into the website, such as analytics or other website functionality. Where consent is required, non-essential third-party cookies will not be used until the relevant consent has been provided.

This information can help us identify areas for improvement. Where applicable, these cookies are non-essential and subject to the appropriate consent requirements.

Functional: These cookies support additional website functionality and may remember preferences or enable features that improve the browsing experience. Where they are non-essential, they may be controlled through the website's cookie preferences.

Targeting: These cookies may be used to understand visits to the website or support more relevant content or communications. Where applicable, they are non-essential and will be subject to the appropriate consent requirements.
